

Good morning sunshine

by monkiimax

Category: Haikyu/ãf•ã,ãã,-ãf¥ãf¼
Genre: Humor, Romance
Language: English
Characters: Asahi A., Yu N.
Status: Completed
Published: 2014-09-16 20:01:02
Updated: 2014-09-16 20:01:02
Packaged: 2016-04-26 21:07:45
Rating: K+
Chapters: 1
Words: 501
Publisher: www.fanfiction.net
Summary: Asahi is a morning person, Noya isn't.

Good morning sunshine

_So this is based on a prompt I saw the other day on Tumblr so it's pretty short and sweet. The pairing is Asanoya, in other words boyxboy so if you don't like it you have been warned. _

_Warning: sorry for my horrible grammar and spelling. I wrote this pretty fast s maybe I will end up editing when my computer comes back to life. _

* * *

>Good morning sunshine_

Asahi didn't need the sound of the alarm to get up before sunrise. Since he was a little by his mother taught him to wake up early to complete a aerie of chores before going to school. Most kids didn't had that kind of education but it helped Asah in plenty if stuff now that he was older. He had no problem getting to morning practice or to make some exercise routines before his first period.

Nishinoya was another story.

"Noya?" The older one called him out as he shook him softly. The boy underneath mumbled something and moved trying to put some distant between him and the one disturbing his sleep. "Noya, wake up."

"Mhp... Away." He repeated this time more clearly.

The younger one always had a problem wailing up every morning. Asahi couldn't count the times he had literally thrown Noya out of the bed fifteen minutes before his first class. But that morning he was going to be gentle with him.

"Noya? It's a beautiful day?"

The smaller one moved to his back and looked at his partner and then towards the window. "Nope, it's a beautiful night. And night is for sleeping so good night." He put a pillow over his head and covered it with the blankets.

Asahi chuckled. It was a hard task to wake up Noya but not an impossible one. Carefully he uncovered the boy and planted a soft kiss on his temple. "Good morning sunshine."

The last thing he expected was a pillow hitting him straight in the face.

"Fuck off!"

Asahi rubbed his pounding nose. So they were going to play rough? Sure he knew how to play rough. With a big jump over the mattress he made Noya jump almost 30 centimeters. The boy screamed shocked but before he fell from the bed he felt a pair of strong arms holding him.

"Okay! Okay! I'm awake now!"

But Asahi wasn't planning let him go anytime soon.

"Do you want to go jogging for a while?"

Noya yawned and rested his head on his boyfriend's chest. "Why do you love morning so much?"

"Why do you hate mornings so much?"

They looked at each other for a couple of seconds.

"What if we make a deal?" Asahi said. "We go jogging as soon as the sun rises. But no complains."

Noya thought about it for a moment. "I will not complain, if you let me oversleep on Saturdays, Sundays and hollydays. Deal?"

Asahi nodded and then kissed him tenderly on the lips.

End
file.